

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

The process is simple. Company A wants to make money. Company A will buy up as much of its competition as is possible since it will make more money. Without competition, Company A has no motivation to provide a quality product. Government regulation is then needed. We need you to help us foster a free and open market.
